BRISTOL... I AM BLOWN AWAY.

Tonight was our first time at the Bristol Farmers Market, and I truly did not know what to expect.

You all showed up BIG.

By the end of the evening, Sweet Leigh Bakery was essentially SOLD OUT! There were new faces stopping by, people coming specifically to find us, returning for more, and so many kind words about my little bakery. And a special THANK YOU to Margaret Franks-Ostrander for the hugs and extra love

Those moments mean more to me than you probably realize.

Every cookie you bought, every Jamwich you grabbed, every bag of pizzelles you took home, every conversation at my table and every person who told someone else to come find me—it all supports something I'm building one batch at a time, right out of my kitchen.

Bristol, THANK YOU.

Thank you for welcoming Sweet Leigh Bakery.

Thank you for supporting small.

Thank you for showing up.

And thank you for nearly WIPING ME OUT on our first night!

I think it's safe to say...

BRISTOL, WE'LL BE BACK.

I Grew Up In Bristol Indiana
Kathy Hall Leib · August 15 ·

I had the chance to stop by the Bristol Farmers Market for the first time on Thursday while I was in town visiting my Dad. (We recently moved to LaGrange county).
No garden this year so I HAD to get some fresh garden tomatoes(in picture). I picked up a few from a nice young local Amish couple. I've already had one big sandwich, my FAVORITE THING in summer, it was delicious!!!
I also picked up a loaf of Braided Cheese Garlic bread(in picture)from a young lady selling baked goods, 'Olivia's Rustic Oven Treasures'. It is just DELICIOUS!!

What I loved MOST about the Market was the sense of community and seeing friends Cathy, Jill and Beverly. Some I've known since we were kids, Cathy Schaefers Antonelli . (PS: I told my Dad you gals said hello. Made him happy)

Glad to to see this for Bristol, made me happy. Hope it flourishes and grows. See less

Big thanks going out to Bristol Indiana and their volunteers for allowing Glasses on the Go to participate in the Farmers Market this season. If you need new glasses or repairs, you can visit us year round at the Goshen Farmers Market or just message us here! See less

SO MANY people were asking me about this or that vendor coming back. Do they have that bread that was so good? What about the one with the delicious vinegars? Vendors also seemed excited to return week after week. And that was due in large part to your work and leadership. Applause to you both!

I am so grateful for the opportunity that I was able to participate in the first year of the Bristol Farmers Market! As a community member, I love supporting local, and especially seeing others in my community do the same.

This is my first year as a vendor, so I myself am learning as I go through different markets and events, but one of the things that sticks out the most from the Bristol Farmers Market is the aspect of community. I truly feel like this has helped bring the community together, seeing familiar faces week to week and getting to know neighbors was truly a highlight of my experience.

Jill and all the volunteers that participated this year were incredible! Not only were things organized well and communication was solid, but all of them were always willing to help vendors, were very welcoming to the community, and overall helped create an environment that was exciting and inviting. Especially to the local kiddos who loved the bubbles, stickers and pumpkins!

I so look forward to next season, I would love to be a part again, and hopefully see the market expand weekly instead of biweekly, as well as continuing to see the number of vendors grow and evolve.

Thanks again to all who are part of making this Market possible!
