As someone who grew up in Camas, I'd like to express my dissatisfaction with the ruling that the gas station won't have an impact on the environment. Every single thing human beings do and add to the world changes and impacts the environment. Demolishing homes creates waste to create space, removing vital tree species to clear space for a parking lot. It's pretty clear profit has won out over actually caring about the environment in Camas, but it's easy to line your own pockets when it's not you who has to breathe the air in 20 years. Consider your children, and your children's children. It's not fair you are choosing profit over protecting the local community, but it's certainly not surprising.

Best,
Sophia Hackl
