Good Evening Mr. Russell, Mrs. Cain, Ms. McCall, Mr. Blount, and Ms. Andrews,

My name is Jeremy and I hope to acquire the property listed at 1209 Campbellton Ave in Chipley. I was excited to hear that in addition to a monetary bid I had the opportunity to make a case for why I should be the new owner of this property.

I relocated to Florida in 2011 and came to love the state, living in Marianna for several years before career opportunities and marriage goals necessitated a relocation to Saint Petersburg, where we lived and were building a home. Unfortunately, my recent divorce has forced me to reset many of my life's goals and expectations. Easily the greatest failure of life (so far), I hope to return to an area where I have friends and family for support. It's my desire to remain in Florida for both personal and professional reasons.

This is where you can help me. This will not be a vacation home or flip for me, but my primary residence. While I've learned that life's unpredictability prevents me from promising to never sell it, my goal is to build a home base that I own outright – something I've desired for most of my life and was on the verge of achieving before my separation.

I own a small media agency, travel for work, and I am a talented builder. My friends and co-workers call me MacGyver, sometimes because they're impressed and sometimes as an insult, but always endearingly. I certainly have the talent and skill to make this a nice home, and I believe I'd be a great addition to your town as well.

I cannot bid much for the property, needing to ensure I have ample funds for its renovation, but if your goals for the property and residents of your town align with what I offer, I'd ask you to grant me the purchase of this lot and small, dilapidated home so we can both be one step closer to our goals.

You'd also make my friends in the area ecstatic! They've been trying to get me back since I left.
If not, I understand that you have a city to run and money is an important resource. There also may be a more deserving candidate than me! In either case, I appreciate your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Wellman
