- B. The Support Services Division shall manage all aspects of the selection process that are under the authority and control of the Chief of Police and the Department.

V. Legal Requirements

- A. A comprehensive manual that describes all components of the selection process shall be maintained by the Support Services Division.
- B. The selection process shall use only those components that have been documented as having validity, utility, and a minimum adverse impact.
 1. Validity shall require proof that a given element of the selection process either will predict job performance or detect important aspects of candidates' work behavior related to the position for which they are applying.
 - a. In the final analysis, the selection process should be strictly accountable to the following checklist:
 - (1) Professionally and legally accepted data collection techniques are used to identify job tasks.
 - (2) Measurable candidate characteristics, related to predicting job performance, are identified.
 - (3) Selection components, whose measures are job-related, have been used.
 - (4) Conclusions and inferences about candidates are logical and persuasive.
 - b. One or more of the following validation strategies shall be used, as appropriate, to support individual components of the selection process or the selection process as a whole:
 - (1) Criterion-related Validation: Criteria are identified that reflect successful performance of the job, and test scores are then correlated with the performance ratings for the predetermined criteria; a high correlation demonstrates that the test is a useful prediction of the candidate's job performance.
 - (2) Construct Validation: Involves the identification of the characteristics or traits (e.g., honesty) believed to be important to successful job performance. A test is then given that shall measure the degree to which the candidate possesses the required characteristics.

- (3) Content Validation: A component of the selection process is justified by showing that it measures a significant part of the job (e.g., a typing test for a Records Technician).
2. Utility shall be an assessment of the practical value of an element of the selection process, based upon consideration of validity, selection ratio, the number of candidates to be selected, and the nature of the job.
3. Adverse impact shall be minimal in the selection process. Adverse impact shall be measured by comparing the selection ratio of each race, gender, and ethnic group with the group having the highest selection rate. This process can be accomplished by:
 - a. Dividing the number of persons selected from each group by the number of applicants from that group.
 - (1) An applicant is any person who has indicated an interest in being considered for employment by completing an application form.
 - (2) A person who voluntarily withdraws, either formally or informally, at any stage of the selection process is no longer an applicant for purposes of computing adverse impact.
 - b. Note which group has the highest selection rate.
 - c. Divide the selection rate for each group by the rate for the highest group.
 - d. If the selection rate for any group is less than eighty (80) percent of the selection rate for the highest group, then adverse impact may be indicated.
 - (1) There may be an explanation for this difference that stems from valid, nondiscriminatory reasons. The analysis should explore this possibility.
 - (2) The calculation should be based on a significantly large number of cases to be statistically significant.
 - (3) If adverse impact is indicated, an analysis of possible causes should be performed and remedies suggested. Steps shall be taken to alter whatever practices contribute to the adverse impact.
 - (4) All records and data used to monitor adverse impact shall be maintained in the Administration Division.
