What I Have Been Up To

- Worked on Annual Pool Report to present to Parks and Recreation Commission as well as City Council. Looking forward to doing this each year to reflect, grow and continue to improve.
- I ran my Ninja Tots program the last 4 weeks, which was super fun!
- I am currently running my parent and child basketball program named Tiny Hoops during the month of October. It's been fun to see what the participants are into and not into.
- Finalizing Winter and Spring Activities Guide. Registration will open the first week in November for winter and spring activities.
- I am exploring some options on potentially doing mailers for my activity guide to try to reach more people in our community who may not receive the paper or be active on social media.
- Our next Parks and Recreation Commission meeting is on October 28th. You will see some decisions we have made as recommendations to Council from our last meeting in regard to some park improvements. At the October meeting, we plan to discuss and work through some details on the City Hall Multipurpose space and look forward to bringing some recommendations to Council.
- Our Pool Fundraising Team met and are currently planning an Arts and Crafts Fair to be held at the City Hall Multipurpose Space on May 1st. Vendor registration is currently open, so if you know of any crafters who might want to join us on May 1st send them our way!
- I sent a donation request to Upland Hills Health who has agreed to donate towards our Financial Assistance program which opens the opportunity to more people in our area to be able to participate in recreation programs and activities. Thank you to Upland Hills Health!
