STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Staff recommends adoption of the Resolution and the Ordinance on First Reading.

BACKGROUND / DISCUSSION

The City purchased a 484-acre property in the Wellington Community Separator in May. This parcel conserves a buffer along two large reservoirs, ensuring habitat and migration corridors for wildlife and fills in gaps in the community separator – a primary goal of the Open Space Yes ballot language (Attachment 3).

For more than two decades, the City and Larimer County Open Lands have collaborated to conserve land throughout Larimer County to meet shared land conservation goals. This collaboration includes funding partnerships on various open space and conservation easement acquisitions. This acquisition and conservation easement will protect important values that confer the following public benefits:

- The property provides a critical buffer for the reservoirs and the surrounding wetlands habitat. It encompasses a mix of native and domestic grasses and previously tilled fields. Data from the Colorado Conservation Data Explorer (CODEX) reveals the property is part of the overall range for mountain lion, black bear, mule deer, brewer sparrow, Cassin's sparrow, ferruginous hawk, golden eagle, grasshopper sparrow, lazuli bunting, prairie falcon, Swainson's hawk, Virginia's warbler, Townsends big-eared bat, tri-colored bat, short-short horned lizard, milksnake, and ornate box turtle. The adjoining reservoirs have been noted as nesting range for the Great Blue Heron, a brood concentration area for Canada geese, and winter forage area for bald eagles.

- Scenic values that provide a spectacular viewshed of the foothills and City of Fort Collins' skyline.
- Open space values will contribute to existing conserved lands in the vicinity with potential recreation opportunities where appropriate.

The proposed agreement between the City and the County authorizes the County to contribute $1,500,000 towards the City's recent acquisition of the Rocky Ridge property and the City to convey a conservation easement and right of first refusal on the property in return. The conservation easement will ensure that any development on Rocky Ridge property is limited in size and area to designated "building envelopes", and that the property will be managed to protect its conservation values in perpetuity. The City and County have also agreed that as part of the Conservation Easement, the City will retain the ability to construct a parking lot, trailhead and related amenities (vault toilets, shade structures, kiosks), along with soft surface trails.

The project addresses key criteria noted in the Land Acquisition Partnership Guidelines:

- The project aligns with the goals of the Council-adopted Natural Areas Master Plan for regional conservation and partnerships by conserving lands within the Foothills/Buckhorn/Redstone conservation focus area.
- Larimer County and the City have a positive track record of partnerships.
- The proposed partnership enhances landscape scale conservation efforts in the Wellington Community Separator (Attachment 4)

CITY FINANCIAL IMPACTS

The total cost to acquire the 484-acre Rocky Ridge property and to subsequently convey a conservation easement on said property is approximately $5,117,600. This total includes the purchase price of the fee acquisition as well as the due diligence and closing costs associated with both the fee acquisition and conservation easement conveyance. The City's share is approximately $3,612,350 and the County will contribute $1,505,250.
