Corner Drug Store Building
Currently Luminant
100 Southwest Barnard Street

One-part Block
Property #33

Contributing

Perhaps the oldest intact commercial building in Glen Rose, the Corner Drug Store Building is a three-bay One-part Commercial Block constructed with ashlar limestone sides and rear and a brick front. The building measures 24 feet 5 inches wide at the front, 25 feet across the rear, and 81 feet long. It has a flat roof in which the front portion drains toward the front and rear slopes to drain toward rear. The stucco-covered brick facade of the building has three bays, the central one containing a wooden single entrance door with glass panel beneath a transom. On either side of the entry are two large fixed plate glass display windows, each beneath its own glass transom. The display window area of the store front is supported on two cast iron upright members marked as having been produced by the Cleburne Foundry Company in Cleburne, Texas. A prominent sheet metal conductor head and downspout on the right front of the building collects and removes rainwater from the front portion of the roof. Historically the front of the building had an iron-rod supported awning that in some years was stabilized by vertical iron pipes. One iron eye remains in the façade from the former awning supports. The northeast side of the building on East Elm Street has two display windows at its northwest end. The rear of the building has a three-bay arrangement as well. It has a central single-door entry with transom flanked by a former sash window on each side that has been enclosed with a wooden covering. The area immediately outside the rear has been developed as a rectangular concrete-floored outdoor patio with a low wooden banister restraint on its three sides. At some time in the 1930s or the early 1940s, the front 19 feet of the building was substantially altered. The northwest front wall and southeast side wall were removed and replaced by brick walls about a foot shorter. Then by the early 1940s this front area was covered with stucco. Again the front part of the building was renovated in 1965. Examination of irregularities in the stonework on the northeast side wall that faces onto East Elm Street shows that this portion of the structure likewise has had multiple additions and changes since its initial construction in the early 1880s. As early as about 1920 this wall has borne painted advertisements, the current one reading "Drink Coca-Cola." After the Corner Drug Store Building ceased to house drug store operations in the 1980s, its interior was modified to house office space and the front awning was completely removed.

Demolition does not meet the Secretary of the Interiors Standards for Rehabilitation. Demolition contravenes the underlying intent of all the Standards (which are designed to guide appropriate repair, alterations, and additions to historic properties), but most obviously violates:

- Standard 2. The historic character of a property shall be retained and preserved.
- Standard 4. Most properties change over time; those changes that have acquired historic significance shall be retained and preserved.
- Standard 5. Distinctive features, finishes, and construction techniques or examples of craftsmanship that characterize a historic property shall be preserved.

The City of Glen Rose adopted its preservation ordinance to "protect and enhance the landmarks and Historic Preservation Overlay Zoning District which represent distinctive elements of the city's historic, architectural, and cultural heritage." The Glen Rose Historic Preservation Commission was created to support the objectives of that ordinance by protecting historic properties.

The owner should explore local grants, tax incentives, or tax abatements for preservation. As a contributing resource in the Glen Rose Historic District, work to the property would be eligible for state and federal tax credits and possibly other grant funding. If the owner does not wish to explore these options then a sale of the building is recommended to an entity that has the time and resources to preserve the building.
