BACKGROUND

As current and retired law enforcement executives, we understand the pressures and ever shifting priorities that law enforcement leaders confront every day. The daily business of running their agency is, as it should be, their priority. Finding the time and resources required to complete long-term in-depth initiatives is always a challenge. The consequence of that reality is that important projects such as agency accreditation are set aside in order to ensure that their agency meet its everyday obligations.

We formed our company in response to that reality. We are a group of law enforcement professionals, who are recognized experts in the CALEA and individual State Accreditation processes. We have an extensive and verifiable record of success in achieving Law Enforcement Accreditation. Our company exists and is growing; simply because we get law enforcement agencies through the accreditation process much faster, significantly cheaper and without department's diverting their already strained resources.

Our "Team" is led by the Company President, Lt. Colonel Frank E. Rodgers (Ret.) of the New Jersey State Police who is recognized by the state and federal courts as an expert in public safety policy, training, supervision, and operations. Lt. Colonel Rodgers' experience in law enforcement accreditation is well established. He is past President of the Advisory Council of the New Jersey Public Safety Accreditation Coalition and in 2008 he was a certified as a CALEA/NJLEAC Assessor. In 2011, he was hired by Stockton University to create and lead the Center for Public Safety and Security where he continues to work in partnership with New Jersey's key public safety and security organizations to enhance the capabilities, professional development, and investment in our State's public safety apparatus.

The core group of our team is comprised of experienced Consultants who between them have more than one hundred (100) years of accreditation and policy development experience during which time they have been contracted to assist over two hundred (200) law enforcement agencies in Pennsylvania and New Jersey through the accreditation process. Each have been accreditation assessors, all have been the accreditation managers of their own agencies and between them have conducted more than one hundred (100) on-site assessments, most of which where our members served as Team Leader.

Within the past twelve years, The Rodgers Group, LLC has been contracted by more than three hundred (300) law enforcement agencies to perform policy development, accreditation consulting and on-line in-service training services. Our list of clients includes more than more than two hundred fifty (250) municipal police departments and many county, state, campus and transportation law enforcement agencies.

On September 22, 2021, Lexipol, the leader in policy, training and wellness support for first responders and public servants, announced the acquisition of The Rodgers Group, greatly expanding its capabilities for accreditation, training and consulting services, see <https://www.lexipol.com/resources/blog/lexipol-acquires-the-rodgers-group-to-expand-resources-for-public-safety-agencies/>

OUR ACCREDITATION AND POLICY TEAM

Frank E. Rodgers retired as the Deputy Superintendent of the New Jersey State Police at the rank of Lt. Colonel after twenty-five years of service. While serving in the second highest ranking position in the largest police department in the State of New Jersey, he led the Investigations Branch which consisted of in excess of 900 detectives, analysts and scientists assigned to 57 different Units, Bureaus and Sections. A strong advocate of police professionalism, strategic planning, and accountability, he initiated and directed a complete restructuring of the organization's investigative assets predicated on the principles of "Intelligence Led Policing". During his tenure as the Deputy Superintendent of Investigations, he directed the development of the "Practical Guide to Intelligence Led Policing" which was published by the Center for Policing and Terrorism at the Manhattan Institute and was adopted in February 2009 by the U.S. Department of Justice as a national model for conducting law enforcement operations.

Following his career with the State Police, he was appointed as the first Police Director of the newly formed New Jersey State Park Police in the Department of Environmental Protection. During his tenure in that position, he developed the force of 120 officers who are responsible for protecting the eighteen (18) million annual visitors to the state's fifty-one (51) parks into a CALEA (Commission on the Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies) nationally recognized and New Jersey State Association of Chiefs of Police Accredited agency.

In 2008, Rodgers formed his own private consulting company. He was immediately contracted to serve as Team Leader of the baseline capabilities assessment of the national network of seventy-two (72) intelligence fusion centers commissioned by the Office of the Director of National Intelligence. To date, the company has been contracted to develop policy and provide customized training services to in excess of three hundred public safety agencies. In 2008, he was certified as an Assessor for the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA) and the New Jersey Law Enforcement Accreditation Program. He is recognized by the United States Department of Justice, the United States District Court, and the Superior Court of the State of New Jersey as an expert in law enforcement procedures, policy, training and supervision. In 2011, he founded and continues to lead the Center for Public Safety & Security at Stockton University in New Jersey.

Rodgers holds a Master of Arts Degree in Education from Seton Hall University and is a graduate of the FBI National Academy. He is the co-author of a comprehensive published history of the New Jersey State Police and the Internal Affairs Investigations Manual for Investigators. He was also the recipient of the New Jersey State Police's highest award when he was named the 1990 Trooper of the Year.

Vance J. Mattis is the Vice-President of Accreditation at Lexipol. Mr. Mattis retired from the New Jersey State Police at the rank of Lieutenant after twenty years of service. Immediately prior to his retirement he commanded the New Jersey State Police Academy's Law Enforcement Science Unit. Prior to his assignment to the Academy, he spent fifteen years within NJSP Field Operations Branch which culminated with his position as a Tactical Patrol Supervisor on the New Jersey Turnpike.

Mr. Mattis has extensive experience in teaching, training development, conducting needs assessments, leadership development, strategic planning, measurement of training, and the principles of return on investment. He was personally responsible for the development of the New Jersey State Police Strategic Planning Model and its implementation organization wide. During his tenure within the Executive Development Training Unit, Mr. Mattis developed and delivered rank specific supervisory training for the ranks of Sergeant through Lieutenant Colonel.

Mr. Mattis is one of the founding members of the Stockton University Center for Public Safety and Security (CPSS), an academic initiative in partnership with our State's public safety and security sectors. In the role as a Consultant to the Center, he serves as the class coordinator and lead instructor for both the NJSACOP Front Line Supervision and Middle Management Leadership programs.

From 2011 to 2017, Mr. Mattis developed training products, and served as both a proctor and as an instructor for the New Jersey Regional Intelligence Academy (RIA). During this same period, he authored multiple strategic plans and organizational assessments for municipal, county, state, and private institutions.

Mr. Mattis holds a Master's degree of administrative science from Fairleigh Dickinson University, a Bachelor of Arts degree in criminal justice from Seton Hall University, and an Associate's degree in law enforcement science from Mercer County Community College. He is a graduate of the FBI Instructor Development Training Course, the NJSP Instructor Training Course, and the Penn State University Justice and Safety Institute Instructor Development Training Course. He attended Fusion Center Leadership training at the Naval Post Graduate School in Monterey California, and he holds a certification in 360 Degree Leadership Profile Assessments.

Michael P. Peoples retired as the Chief of Police of the Long Hill Township Police Department, in July 2007, after serving 25 years with the department, the last 6 years as Chief of Police. The Long Hill Township Police Department was the first Nationally Accredited Law Enforcement Agency in New Jersey designated by the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA) in 1985. During his tenure with the Long Hill Township Police Department Chief Peoples served as the Accreditation Manager and subsequently guided the department through several re-accreditation on site assessments.

Chief Peoples (Ret.) served in every position and command of the Long Hill Township Police Department, prior to his appointment as Chief of Police, which includes Police Officer, Detective, Patrol Sergeant, Detective Sergeant, Lieutenant Division Commander and Executive Officer Captain responsible for inspectional services, internal affairs, and National Accreditation. Chief Peoples is a member of the New Jersey State Association of Chiefs of Police and the Morris County Police Chiefs Association and has served on the Executive Board.

Chief Peoples is an original Commissioner member of the New Jersey State Association of Chiefs of Police Accreditation Commission formed in 2003. In 2005, he was appointed Commission Chair for the New Jersey State Association of Chiefs of Police Accreditation Commission. Chief Peoples has served as an Assessor and Team Leader for the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies between 2002 and 2010. He has conducted numerous on-site assessments for the New Jersey State Association of Chiefs of Police and the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies in the State of New Jersey and nationwide.

Chief Peoples has served as the Director of the Morris County, New Jersey Emergency Communications Center, in the Morris County Department of Public Safety, which is the largest regional Communications Center in New Jersey. The Morris County Emergency Communications Center achieved National CALEA Communications Accreditation in 2015 and were re-accredited in 2018. In 2020, the Morris County Communications Center was awarded APCO 33 Training Certification, one of only 15 Emergency Communications Centers nationwide to hold both CALEA Accreditation and APCO 33 Certification. He served as the Accreditation Manager for the Morris County Emergency Communications Center for the first CALEA Communications Accreditation Award.

Chief Peoples holds a Master of Administrative Science from Fairleigh Dickinson University, a Bachelor's Degree in Criminal Justice from Thomas Edison State College and an Associate Degree in Criminal Justice from Thomas Edison State College. He is a graduate of the 218th Class of the F.B.I. National Academy. Chief Peoples holds the Emergency Number Professional (ENP) certification from the National Emergency Number Association (NENA).

Theodore "Ted" Bremer Jr. began his public safety career in 1988 as a volunteer firefighter, EMT, and rescue diver with the Denville (NJ) Fire Department. In 1991, Ted became a dispatcher and then a Class II Special Law Enforcement Officer with the Denville Township Police Department. He served in that capacity until the Long Hill Township Police Department hired him as a police officer in 1994.

During his employment with the Long Hill Township Police Department, Ted served in many capacities, most notably as the department's Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA) accreditation manager, training officer, policy writer, and patrol supervisor. As the department's accreditation manager, Ted led the department through its initial CALEA accreditation self-assessment phase and three reaccreditations. In 1999, Ted was one of only seven accreditation managers the New Jersey.

In 2001, Ted formed the New Jersey Public Safety Accreditation Coalition (PAC), an IRS-certified non-profit corporation. His vision was to create an organization of accreditation managers who would support one another and each other's departments in their pursuit of accreditation. Over the years, Ted grew the PAC's membership to over 140 Public Safety agencies. During this time, as the PAC's Chief Executive Officer, he began consulting work with diverse and complex organizations regarding accreditation implementation. In 2006, Ted's consulting work resulted in the New York City Police Department's (NYPD) Police Academy becoming CALEA accredited for the first time. Following the success of the NYPD, the New Jersey State Police became accredited through his consulting work in 2007. In 2005, Ted created the Excellence in Policing and Accreditation Conference and partnered with Princeton University to host it annually. These conferences trained over a thousand accreditation managers. Ted retired from the PAC in 2019 after 18 years of distinguished service.

Ted has been an original founding member of the Rodgers Group since 2008. He is one of only four principal compliance policy writers for the team. Ted has also served in the capacity of project manager, most notably with the Camden County Police Department (CCPD). As the CCPD project manager, Ted personally led the department through to successful CALEA accreditation in 2019. In addition, as a principal policy writer, Ted has authored thousands of custom policies for hundreds of different types of law enforcement and public safety agencies in several other states. Most notably, Ted is responsible for over 170 New Jersey law enforcement agencies' regulatory compliance with the state's municipal detention facility standards (N.J.S.A. 10A) and applicable juvenile standards (N.J.S.A. 2A).

Ted holds a Bachelor of Science in Human Services, focusing on the Administration of Justice, from Thomas Edison State University. Ted is currently a graduate student at the University of Central Florida pursuing his M.S./Ph.D. degrees in Criminology and Police Leadership.

Dan Walsh retired from the New Jersey State Police at the rank of Lieutenant in 2008 after a distinguished career spanning 29 years. He began his law enforcement career as a general patrol trooper in Southern New Jersey and served many years in several specialized investigative units tasked with protecting the New Jersey gaming industry in Atlantic City.

Upon his promotion to lieutenant, he was transferred to the organizations Office of Professional Standards where he served as a Staff Inspector and Investigator. During this time, he was responsible for conducting internal investigations into allegations of misconduct, specifically excessive use of force and false arrest allegations. He was also responsible for conducting facility and personnel inspections to ensure compliance with Federal and State policies, Division S.O.P.'s and Rules and Regulations.

In 2006, Lt. Walsh was assigned as a core group member of the Division's CALEA National Accreditation project. During his tenure in this assignment, he was responsible for researching, writing and revising all of the Division's policy to meet the criteria mandated by the C.A.L.E.A. standards. He was directly responsible for developing the agency's evidence audit process and maintaining the Division's accreditation filing system. As a direct result of his efforts, the New Jersey State Police was awarded CALEA National Accreditation in half of the amount of time required by most agencies that successfully attain that recognition.

After completing his assignment as a member of the agency's CALEA Core Group, Lt. Walsh served as the unit head of the Division's Civil Proceedings Unit. In this role he supervised all of the organizations personnel and assets responsible for risk management, civil litigation and the processing of all requests for information submitted to the Division under the Open Public Records Act (OPRA).

During his career, Lt. Walsh received hundreds of hours of focused and specialized training in executive leadership, management, and various criminal investigative topics. In November 2007, he received the "Attorney General's Award" for his distinguished performance in leading the New Jersey State Police's Accreditation Team which resulted in the New Jersey State Police becoming one of only eleven (11) CALEA Nationally Accredited Agencies in New Jersey.

In October 2008, Dan Walsh became a member of the Rodgers Group. Since that time, he has written policy for numerous departments in the accreditation process. He has also been directly responsible for leading dozens of agencies through the initial accreditation and maintenance accreditation processes for Prosecutor Offices, Sheriff's Office's, large agencies, and small agencies for the New Jersey and Pennsylvania State Accreditation Programs as well as the CALEA Accreditation Program.

Dan Walsh has attended and attained credits towards a bachelor's degree in Civil Engineering/Criminal Justice at Spring Garden College, and Drexel and Fairly Dickinson Universities. Dan Walsh possesses a New Jersey State Association Chief of Police (NJSACOP) Accreditation Manager Certificate and a CALEA Assessor's Certificate.

Sam Hishmeh retired as the Deputy Chief of Police of the Long Hill Township Police Department, in December 2007, after having served 25 years in law enforcement. In 1985, the Long Hill Township Police Department was the first Nationally Accredited Law Enforcement Agency in New Jersey designated by the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies. Deputy Chief Hishmeh was designated the department's Accreditation Manager in 1988 for the agency's re-accreditation efforts. During the next 19 years, Deputy Chief Hishmeh played an integral role with his agency's subsequent re-accreditation efforts and written directive system development. Sam had the privilege of serving in many diverse roles within the department and ascended to the rank of Deputy Chief of Police.

During his twenty-five-year career, he managed many functions such as personnel management, fiscal management, evidence management, records management, training coordination, inspectional services, internal affairs, and national accreditation.

While assigned to the Detective Bureau, Sam received a letter of commendation from then Morris County Prosecutor Michael Murphy for his investigative work on a homicide investigation as well as a letter of commendation from the FBI SAC of the Rutland Vermont Field Office, for his investigative assistance in the identification of a serial rapist.

Deputy Chief Hishmeh is a CALEA certified assessor and team leader for the New Jersey State Association of Chiefs of Police. Additionally, he has maintained a high degree of education in the accreditation process by attending numerous CALEA training seminars.

During the past 14 years, Sam has developed written directives for over 150 law enforcement agencies, ranging in size from, small to large metropolitan police departments, county prosecutor's offices and county sheriff's offices. In addition to his work in developing written directives for agencies, he has assisted many departments by coordinating their initial and ongoing accreditation efforts as well as participated in architectural design suggestions for law enforcement facilities.

Deputy Chief Hishmeh has been published in Law-and-Order Magazine, the National Tactical Officers Association's Tactical Edge Magazine as well as contributing to a college textbook titled, "Community Oriented Policing, a systematic approach to policing," by Willard M. Oliver and a book on the History of the Long Hill Township Police Department.

Deputy Chief Hishmeh holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Administration of Justice from Thomas Edison State University and an Associate of Arts Degree in Criminal Justice from Raritan Valley Community Colleges (formerly Somerset County College).

Dr. Bonnie Yeager, Ph.D., DM, is an experienced administrator, manager, instructor, trainer, and technician. As a member of the Rodgers Group, she works to facilitate improved organizational performance through collaboration and mentoring throughout the accreditation process. This endeavor is backed by years of experience in both law enforcement and academic settings.

Dr. Yeager has knowledge and experience with modern supervisory techniques and principles, communications, emergency-management procedures, and complaint mitigation. She holds a Ph.D. in psychology and a professional doctorate in management and leadership, along with master's degrees in administrative science and industrial/organizational psychology. Bonnie has conducted several research studies including her dissertations, Self-Efficacy in Compounded-Stress Assessment and Reported Life Satisfaction among Virtual First Responders: A Predictive Study, and Effectively Leading a Police Organization in the 21st Century: A Qualitative Case Study.

In her work as a member of the police department, Dr. Yeager continues to act as accreditation manager, coordinate policies and procedures, manage paralegal concerns, supervise personnel and services, formally and informally train personnel, advise subordinates, and write grants. With certificates in emergency medicine, management, paralegal studies, and communications, she emphasizes public safety in all aspects.

Adept with online work and technological approaches to subject material, Bonnie holds a strong belief in life-long and adult learning. As a university faculty member, she facilitates doctoral-level courses on public safety leadership, theories of leadership, public administration, professional ethics, and research.

As a volunteer, Dr. Yeager has acted as a mediator for the Superior Court of New Jersey for more than 20 years and served on a rescue squad. She is a member of Psi Chi, the International Honor Society in Psychology, and a certified public manager. Bonnie and her husband, Mike, split their time between their homes in Chester, NJ, and Wesley Chapel, FL.

Michael J. Rogers is a retired police captain having served nearly 28 years with the West Orange Police Department (NJ). He is an experienced policy developer and accreditation manager having served in that capacity from 1998-2006. He successfully brought that agency through the CALEA accreditation process. He had served in every division of the department. Following his retirement from the West Orange Police Department, Mr. Rogers became the assistant business administrator for the township and served in that capacity from 2006 to 2010 until co-founding the Rodgers Group, LLC. He has been a managing consultant and policy writer since its inception.

Mr. Rogers has considerable proficiency in policy development, management, and budgetary matters. He has drafted and managed numerous multimillion-dollar budgets. He had been the commanding officer of the Administration/Staff Services Division and oversaw the construction of the new police facility in 1994. He also implemented the successful migration from an analog radio system to a new 800 MHz EDACS trunked radio system. He also served as the 9-1-1 Coordinator for nearly 10 years.

Mr. Rogers is an experienced grant writer/coordinator having brought millions of dollars in grant funds to his agency. Mr. Rogers had been an experienced instructor and curriculum writer with the Human Resource Development Institute, New Jersey Civil Service Commission in Highlands, N.J. He had developed and lectured in a variety of government leadership, management, and supervision courses including, Public Safety Leadership and Management, Lieutenant Test Preparation, Making the Move to Sergeant, and the Law Enforcement Entrance Examination Preparation Program.

Mr. Rogers holds a Master of Administrative Science degree with Fairleigh Dickinson University with certificates in public administration, law and public safety administration, and human resource development and management. He is also a certified public manager with the New Jersey Civil Service Commission and a recipient of the Harry Wilde Award for Academic Excellence with the West Point Command and Leadership Program with the New Jersey State Association of Chiefs of Police.

Mark Dietrich retired as captain from the New Jersey State Police after 27 years of service. His last assignment was as Bureau Chief of the Violent Crimes Bureau. Being an advocate of cooperation and communication, he developed many projects, directives and procedures which facilitated communication and sharing of information between all law enforcement agencies in New Jersey.

During his tenure as the commander of the Violent Crimes Bureau he managed the Major Crimes Unit, Missing Persons and Child Exploitation Unit, Auto Unit, Fugitive Unit and the Polygraph Unit as well as New Jersey's Violent Crimes Apprehension Program (ViCAP), New Jersey's Missing Persons Clearinghouse, New Jersey's Amber Alert System, and the Division's Crisis Negotiation Teams.

Mark worked directly with the New Jersey Attorney General's Office to create many of the directives that have placed NJ's law enforcement agencies at the forefront of new policing technology and methods. This includes but is not limited to the VICAP directive which fosters and coordinates participation by all New Jersey law enforcement in the comprehensive national violent crime data base operated by the FBI and the New Jersey Child Abduction Response Teams directive (CART) which implemented the standardized investigative response of New Jersey law enforcement to a report of a missing or abducted child.

Throughout his career with the New Jersey State Police, Mark conducted and supervised investigations and projects including the New Jersey State Police's CALEA accreditation efforts related to investigative standards. During his eleven years with The Rodgers Group, Mark has been a project manager to state, county and local law enforcement agencies achieving CALEA Accreditation and New Jersey State Association of Chiefs of Police Law Enforcement Accreditation.

Mark is a graduate of The Richard Stockton College of New Jersey and holds a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Criminal Justice. He has attended the NJSACOP Law Enforcement Accreditation Program Manager training as well as numerous leadership and management courses including Executive Leadership hosted by Princeton University.

Thomas E. Andrascik retired as Chief of Police of the Borough of Lincoln Park Police Department, in March 2011, after serving 25 years with the Department. Chief Andrascik served in every position in the Lincoln Park Police Department prior to his appointment as Chief of Police. Those positions include patrol officer, traffic officer, patrol sergeant, Lieutenant in Charge of Operations, Captain serving as the Executive Officer as well as Deputy Chief.

In 2007, he helped his Agency attain State Accreditation through the NJ State Association of Chiefs of Police Accreditation Program while he was the Accreditation Manager. His agency also attained CALEA Recognition. Prior to his retirement, Chief Andrascik's attained National Accreditation through CALEA in 2011. He was both the Chief of Police as well as the Accreditation Manager for that process.

In addition to managing a police department, he was also tasked by the governing body with assisting in the construction of a new municipal complex. He was responsible for many areas including Access Control, Communications Systems, and computer networks. His agency was one of the first in Morris County to make a complete switch from analog UHF radio frequencies to Digital Communications. Chief Andrascik also led the Lincoln Park Police Department to be the first agency in Morris County, and the second in the State of New Jersey to implement e-ticketing technology.

He is currently a member of the New Jersey State Association of Chiefs of Police, the Morris County Police Chiefs Association, and the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Chief Andrascik was also a member of the New Jersey Public Safety Accreditation Coalition where he served as North Region Vice President until 2010. In 2008, he was certified as a National Assessor for CALEA while at the Conference in Raleigh North Carolina. He has conducted numerous assessments as well as on-sites for Law Enforcement agencies in the State of New Jersey and in other States.

Chief Andrascik is the recipient of many awards while in Lincoln Park for his service; including a Senate Citation for his commitment to enforcing the Driving While Intoxicated laws as well awards were for Meritorious Service, Lifesaving, and Unit Citations.

Chief Andrascik received his Bachelor's Degree from Fairleigh Dickinson University in 1984. He also has hundreds of hours of in-service training relative to Police Supervision, Leadership, and other areas of law enforcement.

He was also the first Consultant/Project Manager to successfully assist a Law Enforcement Agency with not only attaining Law Enforcement Accreditation, but New Jersey's first Communications Accreditation.

Timothy A. Rogers retired as a deputy chief with the West Orange Police Department after completing in excess of 31 years of service. Promoted to deputy chief in 2004, he served as the agency's executive officer when the agency attained national accreditation status from the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA), as well as during the agency's successful, subsequent reaccreditation.

Deputy Chief Rogers (Ret.) oversaw the day-to-day operations of the West Orange Police Department and spent considerable time serving as the acting Chief of Police. He had a significant role in developing and managing of the agency's annual budget as well as serving as the presiding officer over the agency's COMPSTAT process. He also oversaw the selection, development and promulgation of the agency's annual goals and objectives.

Deputy Chief Rogers (Ret.) has extensive experience in analyzing agency operations and developing plans for improving organizational efficiency. He has conducted numerous, complex analytical studies in all aspects of agency processes including, management practices, alternative work schedules, record management systems, operational procedures and personnel development.

During his career, he served the police department in several important capacities including, Patrol Division Commander, Criminal Investigation Division Commander, Internal Affairs Bureau Commander, Shift Commander, Communication Center Commander, Patrol Supervisor and Domestic Violence Coordinator.

Tim has a Bachelor's Degree from Fairleigh Dickinson University and is a Certified Public Manager. Other significant police training includes West Point Command and Leadership, Robert “Bob” Saul retired after 20 years as the Investigative Division Commander of the Westwood Police Department. The Westwood Police Department received initial accreditation in 2010 from the New Jersey State Chiefs of Police Association (NJSACOP) and National Recognition from Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA). Bob was an integral part of the initial accreditation and in 2012, he was assigned as the Assistant Accreditation Manager to assist in the subsequent reaccreditation in 2013.

While in command of the Investigative Division, his responsibilities included: accreditation, major case investigation, property and evidence custodian, intelligence, organized crime and vice, fatal accident investigation, budgeting, bias crime officer, Megan’s law administrator, Amber/Silver alert administrator, department records, crime analysis, annual reporting, and internal affairs investigator.

In 1998, Bob was sworn in as a United States Marshal. This designation allowed him to serve on a regional task force, into Organized Crime, which included the Bergen County Prosecutor’s Office (New Jersey), the Federal Bureau of Investigation and local law enforcement agencies. The Organized Crime investigations were centered in the Northern New Jersey/New York City area. These investigations involved money laundering, illegal gambling, loan sharking, narcotics, and gun trafficking.

Over the course of his career, Bob received numerous commendations from the Bergen County, NJ Chiefs association and Local PBA chapters for his participation and or apprehension of individuals who engaged in committing homicides, bank robberies, armed robberies, drug trafficking and residential and Commercial burglaries. Bob was involved in the seizure of over $365,000.00 and numerous firearms during a Joint DEA, Bergen County Prosecutors Office and Westwood Police Department narcotics investigation into an illegal stash house that was located in Westwood, NJ.

Bob is currently responsible for the three largest Police agencies in Bergen County and was a part of the TRG team, which was responsible for the restructuring of Bergen County Law enforcement with the merger of the Bergen County Police Department with the Bergen County Sheriff’s Office.

Since 1985 Bob has also been involved, as a volunteer, with the Westwood Fire Department. He held every officer rank in the Department and attained the Rank of Chief in 2008. He has received numerous lifesaving awards during his career.

Todd Malland retired as a Captain in 2021 after a distinguished career at the Manchester Township Police Department. Throughout his career, Captain Malland (ret.) has served as a patrol officer, narcotics investigator, detective, evidence custodian, detective sergeant, patrol sergeant, lieutenant, and captain. As captain and the agency’s Executive Officer between 2015 and 2021, he served as the Commander of the Office of Professional Standards (Internal Affairs) and supervised the nearly seventy (70) officers who made-up the Investigations, Administrative Services, and Patrol Bureaus. Additionally, he served as the agency’s Public Information Officer, Training Coordinator, Safety Committee Liaison and Special Projects Director during the that time period. He was also responsible for equipment procurement and overseeing the agency's $550,000 annual operating budget.

In 2011, Captain Malland (ret.) was assigned as the agency's first Law Enforcement Accreditation Program (L.E.A.P) manager and has served in the capacity ever since, successfully leading the department through its first accreditation assessment in 2012, and two subsequent assessments in 2016 and 2019. Prior to retiring in December of 2021, Captain Malland (ret.) prepared the agency for its fourth accreditation assessment scheduled for early 2022.

More recently, Captain Malland (ret.) was assigned to serve as the Commander of the Manchester Township Division of Emergency Services. In that capacity, he supervises a civilian director along with approximately forty (40) Emergency Medical Services personnel and ten (10) fire personnel. He is also responsible for equipment procurement and an operating budget of approximately $400,000 annually.

Captain Malland (ret.) is a graduate of the New Jersey State Association of Chiefs of Police (NJSACOP) Command and Leadership Academy, the NJSACOP Executive Institute and the FBI's Mid-Atlantic Law Enforcement Executive Development training course. Captain Malland (ret.) has successfully completed the FBI's Law Enforcement Executive Development Trilogy and holds the distinction of being a New Jersey Accredited Command Executive. Additionally, he is a graduate of the 278th Session of the FBI National Academy. Captain Malland is a NJSACOP Law Enforcement Accreditation Assessor and a State licensed Qualified Purchasing Agent (QPA).

Captain Malland (ret.) holds a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Individualized Studies as well as a Master's Degree in Administrative Sciences from Fairleigh Dickinson University in Teaneck, NJ.

John DeMillio has been a member of the Sea Girt Police Department since 1990 and is currently a Lieutenant heading the Administrative Division. As the Administrative Lieutenant, John manages Support Services, Records, Training, and Professional Standards.

Lieutenant DeMillio served the Sea Girt Police Department in various positions during his tenure. Prior to his current position his assignments included Communications, Patrol, Investigation, Patrol Supervisor, and Investigative Supervisor.

Lieutenant DeMillio was assigned to the Accreditation Program in 2010, giving him over a decade of experience with the accreditation process. He was responsible for assisting the agency through each cycle of accreditation to date. He has been the primary policy writer for the agency, keeping the agency directives relevant and compliant.

Lieutenant DeMillio serves as the training officer for the agency, responsible for the development, implementation, and delivery of in-service training. He developed and managed the agency's Field Training Program, transitioning the program from a paper-based system to a fully comprehensive and computerized and system. In 2014 Lieutenant DeMillio implemented the agency's first body camera program. Since the initial implementation he continues to manage the program and was responsible for two major equipment and system upgrades.

Lieutenant DeMillio transitioned the agency from a paper-based records management system to a modern computer-based records system. He was responsible for researching, securing funding, and implementing a computerized CAD/RMS system. Later, when the agency transitioned to the County Communications Center and CAD/RMS system, Lieutenant DeMillio was assigned as the agency liaison to the Law Enforcement Communications Working Group. The Law Enforcement Communication Working Group works to standardize communications procedures amongst the agency who contract services with the County Communications Center.

Lieutenant DeMillio is an instructor for the Monmouth County Police Academy and the Division of Criminal Justice Academy. For over 20 years, he has instructed hundreds of basic training recruits in Domestic Violence Investigation, Expandable Baton, and other training topics.

Lieutenant DeMillio worked with the New Jersey Public Safety Accreditation Coalition as a Mock Assessor. He participated in numerous mock assessments, which assisted agencies in verifying compliance before calling for an official assessment. He also mentored agency Accreditation Managers throughout the State who participated in the NJLEAP program and the CALEA programs. His experience led him to a seat on the Board of Directors for the organization. During his time with the N.J.P.S.A.C., he instructed accreditation related topics during the annual conferences, regional workshops, and in various agencies.

Lieutenant DeMillio studied at Richard Stockton University and Thomas Edison State University.

Donald Philippi retired as a captain from the New Jersey State Police after 25 years of dedicated service. Don culminated an extremely successful career as the Deputy Troop Commander in Troop "A." During his tenure there, Don was responsible for managing the performance of over 450 troopers assigned at seven general road duty stations, the Atlantic City International Airport, Camden Metro South, the Camden Strategic Investigations Unit and Troop "A" Headquarters personnel. For the final six months of his career, Don served as the interim Troop "A" Commander where he was responsible for the supervision of the entire southern third of the New Jersey State Police Patrol force.

During Don's tenure with the State Police, he was assigned as a part of the core group tasked with implementing a risk management process that identified and rectified deficient performance. The system better known as the Management Awareness Personnel Performance System (MAPPS) was implemented throughout the organization.

Don's early work with the MAPPS enabled him to identify and correct system deficiencies that improved its functionality and enhanced the identification of performance trends. While in command assignments, Don developed and refined an innovative and objective evaluation process that accurately and fairly assessed those most qualified for special assignments and promotions. His transparent approach and analysis of performance won the confidence of his subordinates, peers, and supervisors. Don's innovative philosophy enhanced the work performance of the membership and contributed to the development of future leaders within the New Jersey State Police.

Following his career with the New Jersey State Police, Don was appointed as the Chief of the Cumberland County 9-1-1 Emergency Communications Center. Don is a graduate of the University of Delaware and holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Criminal Justice. He has attended numerous leadership and management courses including Executive Leadership hosted by Princeton University.

For the last 9 years Don has been the Sales Manager for both PowerDMS and Guardian Tracking for New Jersey. He also handles PowerDMS sales in Pennsylvania. His duties include contacting potential clients, demonstrations of products, assisting with the procurement process, and training to implement the products at each agency. Once onboarded Don continues to work with these agencies to train new administrators and keep them up to date with changes within both products.
