Mr. Perry,

It breaks my heart to write this. I had to make one the hardest decisions I can remember to date today. I am leaving with great memories of our conversations and time working together with you, for you. I was offered a job with a schedule and pay I just can not refuse. Over $54,000.00 a year. I know we talked yesterday and I said I would stay, but the offer was countered. Also... Its Ferris. I know I said it was Grapevine yesterday. Sorry for lying to you it hurt me to do that. I was scared to tell you. I feel like Im stabbing you in the back. I look up to you so much. You have been a great man to work for. I will miss you the most about this job. July 5th will be my last day if that is alright. Im sorry I know you fought for me yesterday. I do appreciate that. I do appreciate you. For everything. I just need the money to take a lot of stress off my wife and my plate. Thank you for the opportunities, the love, the years, and so many things I could list. That list would go on forever and I would still forget to label all of them. This hurts.

I am sorry,

- D. Daily
