PART B

Introduction and Background:

As we approach Veterans Day, it is a privilege to take this moment to formally recognize and honor the brave men and women who have served in the United States Armed Forces. Their patriotism, love of country, and willingness to sacrifice for the common good have upheld the values we all hold dear.

In the City of King, we have a strong tradition of honoring those who have served. We would especially like to extend our thanks to any veterans, active-duty service members, and their families joining us here and online tonight. We are profoundly grateful for your service and sacrifice.

In keeping with our time-honored tradition, we will now read the official Veterans Day proclamation for the City of King. This proclamation, like those in years past, serves as our community's formal testament of appreciation for our veterans. Following the reading, we will present this proclamation to members of the King American Legion Post 290, who are with us this evening. This is a small but meaningful way for us to remember those who have defended our freedoms.
