I reviewed your email below and Greg Wilfong's response pertaining to any potential conflicts. I note that the work previously done and concluded was related to some civil engineering tasks. The planning analysis which is to be performed by KH would not result in any conflict insofar as the Town is concerned. Moreover, I note that it would be KH who would determine whether it has any conflict with a former client. Based upon the response below, KH has determined that the work that it previously did for its former client would not create a conflict for the firm.

Based upon my experience and membership as an AICP planner and as an instructor of the Ethics review course for planners seeking certification, the AICP planners involved in the performance of the planning services for the Town would not have a conflict under the AICP Code of Ethics.

Good morning Nadia,

We received confirmation from our Kimley-Horn partner, Greg Wilfong, P.E., that we were contracted for civil engineering, landscape architecture and traffic. The client had contracted with other consultants for planning and legal work. Let me know if you need anything further on that matter.
