Councilmember Clemons: Stated some of the debt ceiling proposals is pulling back all of the ARPA money. And thought that we needed to be leveraged and have plans to use it to benefit our citizens. Whether it's extending mill and overlay, sidewalks, getting the fiber past phase 1, putting in new utilities, and things of that nature. The last thing he wanted it to do is go back to the federal government and count half of a cent in our taxes. The city got it, and he thought we needed to use it for our citizens.
