About Consumer Textile Corporation

As a family business that has been in this market since 1907, we care about our image and contribution to the community. We create high-energy environments where our people can thrive—and we bring a commonality to those environments so that people from one area of our business can work seamlessly with those in other areas. We foster a Culture to be supportive, approachable leaders and colleagues with deep, market-relevant skills and expertise. We give back to this community and feel a high level of dedication to the markets we live in and serve. We invest in our people as we know that is our most important asset. We understand the importance of building value and maintaining long-term customer partnerships. That's why we work so hard to do what's right for our customers, even when that might not be what's best for the company. We can do that because we are family owned, and we can do it quickly—without the approval of a board or an executive committee. This unique culture is what you are buying....and offers you a diverse network of skilled, respected colleagues and leaders who are committed to helping our Employees, and ultimately our Customers, succeed.
