Waste Industry Historical Society

Thank you for taking the time to give our organization opportunity for hotel motel money. A brief description who we are.

My name is Anthony Ricchio: the president of the organization.

We are made of various board members throughout the United States in various areas of the country. We approached local people to find a solid place to have this housed and looked at the cost to upkeep and time. We approached Ed Raye from the railroad museum and he liked the idea of having more draw for tourism and tours also locating in there building. As I researched different museums to partner there is no one like Waste industry historical Society in the United States. We are 501c3 compliant as a tax exempt status and looked at the opportunities with the rail road museum. For us to invest into there building. We will put resources to help get tourism in Oelwein and make this a power house as it was one time. Both organizations feel that expansion of facility and resources will work hand in hand.

All supplies will be bought locally and support local businesses.

We hope to take this concept as a base nationally as this is why I have the board setup this way. This will be the home office hub.

I hope this helps explain the vision and with the new event center coming this will be a great addition to hold waste industry events.

President:

Anthony Ricchio

Brief description of project.

The project is a joint agreement between the Oelwein railroad museum and waste industry historical society. What that means is that the waste historical society is going to help revitalize the building for trade of a couple of rooms to make it a fulltime facility for tours and open to public.

How will hotel/motel funds be used to help attract and expand tourism.

The funds will help preserve the rooms to hold historical items open to the public locally and nationally as this will be the very first waste historical museum style organization in the united states to exist. This will attract a whole market that has never been done and filter people in for food and hotel usage.
