To Whom It May Concern,

We are writing in support of our neighbors at 104 Laura Lane, who recently completed a thoughtful and high-quality remodel of their home. They have done a beautiful job improving the property, and we appreciate the care and investment they have made in our shared neighborhood.

As part of their renovation, a pool was installed in the front yard. While front yard pools are not something we would generally advocate for under the Rollingwood code, this pool has already been approved and installed in compliance with existing regulations. Given that reality, we believe it is important to focus on ensuring the finished result is both safe and visually harmonious for the surrounding homes.

Currently, one portion of the pool area does not have a railing or fence along the exposed side facing the street. Although we understand that the significant drop-off may technically meet code requirements, the lack of a physical barrier presents a safety concern. In addition, from our home across the street, we have a direct view of the large concrete base of the pool structure.

For both safety and aesthetic reasons, we strongly support our neighbors' request to install steel planters and a screening fence. These additions would soften the visual impact of the exposed concrete, enhance the overall streetscape, and provide an added layer of safety for children, pedestrians, and visitors in the neighborhood.

We believe these improvements would benefit not only our neighbors but also the broader community. We appreciate your consideration and support of their request.

Sincerely,

Kate Andrade
109 Laura Lane
