Good morning Makayla, can you please forward this email to the City Council, RCDC, and Parks Commission? Thank you.

My name is Zack Britton, a former Major League Baseball player for the Baltimore Orioles and New York Yankees. I live [REDACTED] with my wife, 4 young children, and small dog. We are thrilled about our move to Rollingwood, where our children actively play at the park a few times a week and also participate in local recreational sports, including Western Hills Little League. I am writing to express my support for the current proposals to establish a dedicated dog park, no larger than 0.4 acres. We selected Rollingwood as our home due to its exceptional community and the high standards it upholds. However, the current park situation falls short of these standards. It is unacceptable to ask children to play on top of dog waste, which can lead to various issues and potential liability in the future. As a new wave of young families moves into Rollingwood, we are committed to upholding and growing the neighborhood into the premier community of the city. I encourage you to consider the current proposals for a dedicated dog park. Thank you for your consideration.
