Dr. Shanon Brooks

I am the president of Monticello College, a unique school that combines georgics, the liberal arts, manual arts, and entrepreneurship with the goal of debt-free, mortgage-free, self-reliant graduates. I have written two books, AMERICAN: Killing the American Dream and A Thomas Jefferson Education for Teens. I will be happy to donate a copy of each for all county libraries. I am a veteran of military service in the United States Submarine Fleet and I hold a Bachelor's degree in business administration, a Master's degree in education, and a Ph.D. in constitutional law.

My interest in serving on the San Juan County Library Board harkens back to a love of education and a desire to impact the next generations for good through a study of good books and vigorous discussion. I feel paternal when it comes to ensuring that the books we provide for the county's citizens are volumes that promote the best of American culture.
