

SOUTHEAST ALASKA TIMBER, RAINFOREST TRAIL & TOTEMS

Discover the timber history through this comprehensive outdoor experience in Southeast Alaska. A Naturalist will guide you through an active sawmill where you will learn the process of harvesting trees, and how they are used today. Marvel at the lush flora and fauna as you follow along a scenic rainforest trail into the Saxman Native Village Totem Park. Throughout your visit, you will get to explore the living history of this community by observing the majestic totem poles that fill the entire park. Be sure to capture a photo of the Beaver Clan House and active Carving Center where artists work on their craft.

Learn about the life, history, and culture of the Tongass National Forest and Native Alaskan Communities through interactive exhibits. The Southeast Alaska Discovery Center is guided by US Forest Rangers and located next to the historic grounds of the Ketchikan Spruce Mill.
