I feel the questions on this survey could have been worded differently as to not be so repetitive. I also think that there should be limits of how many boards one person can serve on. Say three, or five. Otherwise, you have the same ideas and ideals from the same person on every board running the whole town. A town/city cannot grow and develop from that.

Have a place to hold events/recreation center, like the arc, rough rider center, etc. Oilfield companies can hold meetings, other things for kids adult exercise, pickle ball, tennis, etc.

Q59 What else do you want to share?

Long Text

I really think there has to be a discussion on how to get new businesses here. Think big on plants/factories. That would bring people in to stay with a long term career. Even another dealership that is good sized, Toyota or Subaru or something of the sort. We aren't far from the interstate. Reach out to these companies and tell them we have the land to build. Once we get long term career jobs around here. People will stay. Then everything else will come. Like recreational activities, other things being built because we will have the people to do it. If oil dies Sidney will lose a lot more people and businesses. Not a lot more development left for the Bakken. There are a lot of oilfield people that live in Sidney and work in other areas of North Dakota. So it would be good to have these discussions.

Pride in work/job seeps into all aspects of Sidney. Power boxes at are banged up and wires exposed just outside of school enterances. Draping power lines. Paint chipping off buildings. A community wide dump day would be amazing. So many residents leave stuff near garbage cans that the city will not pickup. Sits there for years. Pride stems at an individual level but can be caught by others surrounding you. We need a big up tick in Pride in our community.

Q59 What else do you want to share?

Long Text: LOOK AT ALL THE LONELY PEOPLE!!!

Loneliness is not just a personal issue—it's a nationwide crisis with deep health, economic, and social consequences. But small actions—like reaching out to others, supporting community events, and fostering in-person interactions—can help reverse the trend.

WHAT HAVE YOU DONE TODAY?

It started with a message.
"Hey, I saw your post and love your stories about just wanting to agree. I don't know why I'm even writing this. I guess I just... don't have anyone else to talk to."

The message was from a woman named Walter. At least, that's what the username said. It could have been a mistake, a spam bot, or someone just messing around. But something in those words made me pause. I answered.

"Hey Walter, I'm here. Tell me what's on your mind."
There was a long silence before he replied.

"My name's actually Walt. I'm 73. My wife passed four years ago. I thought I'd get used to the quiet, but it just gets heavier. I used to talk to her about everything—what I had for breakfast, what I saw on my walk, stupid things on the news. Now, some days, I don't say a word out loud. It feels like I could disappear, and no one would notice."

I swallowed hard, staring at the screen.

"I notice," I typed. "Tell me about your walk today."
And just like that, a thread formed between two strangers.
Walt wasn't the only one.

After a few weeks of just listening, my inbox was full of quiet voices from the shadows. People who needed to be seen. There was Janet, a widow in her sixties, who hadn't spoken to her son in years and didn't know how to fix it. Eli, a young guy fresh out of college, who had moved for a job and realized too late he had no one to share his life with. Maria, a single mother who loved her kids but felt like she didn't exist outside of them.

Each one carried their own version of loneliness, wearing it like an old coat, too heavy to shrug off. And all of them—every single one—apologized for reaching out.
"Sorry to bother you."
"I know this is silly."
"I shouldn't be dumping this on a stranger."

But they weren't bothering me.

So I answered. Every time.
One day, I got another message from Walt.
"I went to the café you mentioned. Sat outside. This lady next to me was reading a book I used to love. I told her so. We talked for a while. First real conversation I've had in months. Felt good."
I smiled at the screen.

"That's great, Walt. You should go back tomorrow."

"Maybe I will."
That was the beginning of something.

Over time, the messages changed. Eli joined a local board game night and made a friend. Maria started writing in a blog to reconnect with herself outside of motherhood. Janet sent a message to her son, and to her shock, he replied. Walt went back to the café. And then to the bookstore. Then a walking group.

"Turns out, people are everywhere," he wrote one evening. "I just had to say hello."

It wasn't magic. It didn't fix everything.
But it mattered.

Because loneliness doesn't always need a grand solution. Sometimes, all it takes is one person who answers.

And as I closed my laptop for the night, I wondered how many more were still out there, staring at their screen, fingers hovering over the keyboard—waiting for someone to notice.

And I knew, when they reached out, I would answer.

Q59 What else do you want to share?

Long Text Seriously, why build so much facilities at the fairgrounds to use once a year for 4h, a very small majority of the community, this was absurd and a massive waste of community funds. Very disappointed in this county for doing that. Seems like an abuse of power of the individual commissioners in power to push only what they like to do instead of the community as a whole. Definitely doesn't help the population in Sidney, only the small rural population that uses the facilities 4 days out of the year.

Other: Most cities allow for chickens to be raised. We live in a rural town and one minor step the city should do is allow the raising of chickens. Most cities I have lived allow for them but just restrict roosters and such. It's crazy how I have lived in big cities which allow me to be more self sufficient than living in rural Sidney Montana. Q59 What else do you want to share?

Long Text Not sure if it's possible, but a Norway type system for incarnated people. More positive outreach from cops (my kids were little and cops would drive by - no wave, no smile, no lights, nothing).

Q59 What else do you want to share?

Long Text I do not support county-wide zoning at all. Zoning (and all regulations) should be applied equally, which means if you tell me what I can and cannot do with my own property, I can tell you what you can and cannot do with your property as well. People do not like this when it's turned around on them. If you wanted to control all of the property around your house, you should purchase all of the property around you.

Short Text: Same answer. I've lead the Richland county homeschool group since 2018 and we have yet to find a place for these COUNTY STUDENTS to meet and do school activities together. We have no space that is for us. We have used the space above the health dept

Q59 What else do you want to share?

Long Text: Continuing answer- we've used the space above the health dept and truly appreciate it, but would love a space that is usable for physical activity too. It's soooo hard to plan events and activities for 20-40 kids without having a space available. We have used the space at the extension center too, and appreciate it! But they have offices running all day, so it's hard to do stuff with so many kids too without disturbing anyone. It would be nice to have a county space for county students. We can't use the schools anymore or gyms because of insurance issues. We are just a group of families- we aren't an LLC or business so we can't get that stuff just for an hour, or a paint class.

I like living in rural Sidney. Multiple times over the years I have heard via rumor that the businesses in Sidney "didn't allow" a new business start-up (of significance). That is why I question if our business folk really want growth. If they do not, then this is a moot survey. If they do, then I would think a manufacturing business would be an awesome find.

We basically need money and people to gain the things that Fairview and Sidney need to thrive. It's unfortunate that there aren't adequate resources but I don't see any of that resolving with the lack of oilfield presence or Federal assistance. Raising taxes isn't going to help anyone flourish.

Q59 What else do you want to share?

Long Text I feel like Sidney/Richland County is in a poor position in our region to attract major businesses. It's not situated favorably to the major financial driver which is the Bakken oil field. In my opinion a time zone change for the region would make a huge difference. Sounds like a pipe dream though. Why would a major company or other businesses want to put themselves in Montana when ND has a more favorable business environment and the Bakken field is more centralized? The oilfield is the major provider of high paying jobs to afford our high cost of living in this isolated area. But it's very nice to live here and not have the stresses of living in more populated areas of the country. But commuting to work adds hours to a persons day.

If you don't have good employees it makes it very hard to run a business so in return new business don't thrive. Burger King is a great example in Sidney of a good business to bring into the community but appears to have staffing issues.
How can we as a community attract good people that influence our younge children in a positive matter verse attracting the negative things such as drugs and alcohol abuse that can tear down a community and no longer make it desirable to live in the area.
I love our community and area! It's a great place to live let's keep improving it!

Q14 In the future, what would you like to see in Richland County?

Multi Choice: Other: Spend our money wisely, I think it awesome to see new improvements and buildings being developed in our county, but I don't think we are getting the most out of our money. Example - Firehouse. Totally agree Sidney needed a new facility, but we didn't need an overbuilt, over engineered playhouse. Redundant heating, block building, living space (just in case), museum, gym. Fairview's new facility seems to be very functional without all the unnecessary bells and whistles, and is multifunctional. (Crazy concept) Example - Fairgrounds. I love seeing the new developments there. It's a facility our entire county can utilize and enjoy, but I truly think we have missed an opportunity to have so much more. Brand new buildings without heat or ac, new 4-h/FFA facility (which is just ok) that only gets used 1 week a year, and now a 14 million dollar monstrocity that doesn't even have its own kitchen. (But the lights are super cool) Could have been so much more but the money and space is gone.

Q56 If you could implement one change to Sidney, what would it be?

Short Text

Q58 If you could implement one change to Richland County, what would it be?

Short Text: To remove the abilities of the commissioners to keep wasting money on unwanted and unnecessary buildings at the county fairgrounds, there are no people I have ever spoken with who believed the continued development of the fair grounds was a wise choice

Q59 What else do you want to share?

Long Text: This county and its communities could really use something that would benefit the youth and families, recreational opportunities, a rec center of some sort. When better than half the year is spent in adverse weather it'd be nice to have an option to go some where local to let your kids expend some energy and play. And if there were such a thing to not have to take out a mortgage to afford to do it, no one can afford to do anything in this town. Shop local is another thing that sounds great but most people simply can't afford to do that and are forced to go to Williston or elsewhere. That's where more retail options for basic goods would be nice. If the county had not overspent the 10s of millions of dollars we have developing the COUNTY fair grounds like we have some of these things could have been addressed. None of what's been done there needed to be or at the very least none needed to be so extravagant when for years simple pole barns sufficed in doing the job. And even then there's no way some of the developments should have cost what they were said to have cost. Our commissioners simply need to do better by their constituents!

We missed the boat kids. The money to fund the things we want for our kids and communities stems from business taking root in our community. We have lost so much in just the past 5 years alone, how do your replace some of these large companies and their donation/input to our projects. All of us have to drive to williston/watford/alexander for work, we are so use to drive away from sidney for work or to get groceries at a decent price that's it's just become the life we live. Saturdays we go to watford or williston, grocery shop, go to the arc or rough rider center, have lunch, maybe do a bit of clothes shopping or other errand running ect. Usually $500-$1000 by the time we leave. Sidney has now missed out on that money from my family we spend weekly getting groceries, eating lunch/dinner getting our kids some shoes, diapers, clothes, formula, ect. It just sucks but we are use to it. In the next 10 years we will buy a house in williston or watford because those communities offer more for my children growing up. I will drive to sidney for work (if we don't fold up shop here and make our main office in williston or watford because that's where all the oil companies are so we should be closer to our customers with our main office) I will still own both my farms here and probably driver over to farm/help 3-4 times a week but other than that my family can farm it or I'll rent it out. I fear we missed out.

An indoor water park like Williston has would be amazing! It would attract people to our town from surrounding areas so local businesses would also benefit from the visitors!
