THE STORY OF MY MONSTER:

one day in a small town called Sandpoint, in the state of Idaho, an entity of power decide that the Idaho state flower, the Syringa, needed a protector, a guardian of sorts. You see, animals were trampling the Syringas, and storms were ripping it to shreds. So, the entity created the protector, and named it The Guardian of the Syringa. The Guardian worked tirelessly, she planted more Syringa, she persuaded the animals to find another food source, and she sheltered it from the storms. Now, if you're wandering around the forest and you see a syringa, you will most likely see the Guardian.
