My name is Becky. I live at 8099 Van Buren St NE, Spring Lake Park, MN 55432 and don't mind kids parking on my side street and walking. The kids parking have always been respectful. Some days there is one car, some days there is 4 BUT there is space to get through. I also have buses park in the shade of my tree and wait for their next route. That is fine with me as well.

If it becomes no parking, I wouldn't be able to pull my van over to the street to give my kids space to ride their bikes. Our driveway is on 81st so I don't like them lapping my van and risk going into the road. We homeschool so my kids are home during the school day. When the 3 year old is out, the van in my driveway becomes an obstruction and I move my van to be able to see the entire driveway without risk. Living on a busy street is stressful with children and knowing I can pull my van to my side street helps ease the anxiety.

We also have been having a lot of work done recently and the workers tend to park on the street. With a no parking rule, they would need to park blocks away when they need to be able to come and go. The floor guys have been in and out a half dozen times today. They have gear in multiple vehicles and being on 81st, I have to make sure they aren't blocking the sidewalk so part of them park on the street.
