- The Comprehensive Plan is a planning document that directs all activities related to land use and the future of natural and man-made systems and services in Tualatin.

CHAPTER 16 - HISTORIC PRESERVATION

TDC 16.010. - Background.

Tualatin's history is directly tied to the agricultural based development patterns from this agricultural base left a scattering of residential dwellings and structures on the landscape with a small core area for retail activities. This pattern continued until the 1970's when rapid growth came to the area. From the 1970's to 1991 the City experienced rapid growth in residential, commercial and industrial activities. The once thriving agricultural economic base was transformed into a suburban extension of the Portland Metropolitan area. Along with this economic prosperity came the loss of many of the historic resources which once identified the community.

The City of Tualatin Comprehensive Plan—Phase I—Technical Memoranda developed in 1979 identified seven structures in the central area of downtown. These structures were subsequently given historic status and regulations pertaining to modifications, demolitions and alterations for the designated resources were adopted and integrated into the Tualatin Development Code. The Technical Memoranda further indicated additional historic resources are located in Tualatin and that urban development would cause the loss of these resources. The report concluded that the City should investigate ways to preserve the history of the community.

- (1) The demand for the City's residential, commercial and industrial development will continue to increase and historic resources.

6 HISTORIC PRESERVATION

16.010 Background

Tualatin's history is directly tied to the agricultural based economy which historically supported the majority of its residents. The development patterns from this agricultural base left a scattering of residential dwellings and structures on the landscape with a small core area for retail activities. This pattern continued until the 1970's when rapid growth came to the area. From the 1970's to 1991 the City experienced rapid growth in residential, commercial and industrial activities. The once thriving agricultural economic base was transformed into a suburban extension of the Portland Metropolitan area. Along with this economic prosperity came the loss of many of the historic resources which once identified the community.

Objectives

Enhance property values and increase economic and financial benefits to the City and its inhabitants;

Carry out the provisions of Statewide Planning Goal 5.

The City of Tualatin Comprehensive Plan—Phase I—Technical Memoranda developed in 1979 identified seven structures in the central area of downtown. These structures were subsequently given historic status and regulations pertaining to modifications, demolitions and alterations for the designated resources were adopted and integrated into the Tualatin Development Code. The Technical Memoranda further indicated additional historic resources are located in Tualatin and that urban development would cause the loss of these resources. The report concluded that the City should investigate ways to preserve the history of the community.
