

Nancy Platner

Bio

I have been an artist in one form or another my whole life. So much of my work now comes from doodlings and ideas from my childhood.

I started my company, Chalk It Up to Nancy, 11 years ago. It all started with chalkboards and soon evolved into window painting. My business grew rapidly, all via word of mouth. I now have several accounts all over South Central Wisconsin. For Christmas last year I had over 40 accounts of windows to paint!

I have murals at Whiskey Ranch and Hacienda Real in Janesville. Hacienda also has my work in their bar and women's restrooms.

Red Baron in Edgerton also has 2 of my murals, as well as an 11x5ft chalkboard.

I have painted multiple Adirondack chairs for various clients as well.

My most recent project was a donation of my art to a demolition derby car for Chilimania, a local charity here in Edgerton. It won best in show for my artwork. There were 120 cars in the Tournament of Destruction that day.

My office is typically outdoors, and I love it that way. It is so rewarding to have a career where people compliment and thank me for my work. Every single day.
