Has anyone else noticed the growing RV encampment at the Town Center?

Several RVs have now been parked there for weeks, and the situation is beginning to feel more like an unmanaged encampment than temporary parking. One of the RVs is even running a gas-powered generator outside 24/7.

I'm surprised this hasn't been more widely addressed, given the visibility of the location and its impact on the community space. I've just emailed the property management group, ROIC, to report it — has anyone else reached out or heard if the city is planning to step in?
