Discussion

On May 26, 2020, the City Council adopted Ordinance No. 2020-34, which established a limit of no more than three consecutive terms for board and commission members. The ordinance also created term-limit holdover provisions and applied these limitations retroactively to members serving on the applicable boards and commissions as of the effective date.

On February 28, 2023, the City Council adopted Ordinance No. 2023-10, which amended Chapter 18 (Animals) in its entirety. During that update, the term-limit holdover provisions were inadvertently removed from the Code.

On January 27, 2026, the City Council adopted Ordinance No. 2026-08, amending various sections of the Code of Ordinances to streamline residency, voter registration, and employment-related qualifications across all boards and commissions, with limited and clearly defined exceptions. At that time, staff did not realize that the term-limit holdover provision had been inadvertently omitted from the current Code during the 2023 update.

This amendment restores the term-limit holdover language to ensure consistency with the provisions governing all other boards and commissions, with the exception of the Economic Development Corporation.
